AIXC Continues Strategic Corporate Expansion to Support Hyper-Growth of AIxC Hub Ecosystem

January 23, 2026

Following stronger-than-projected metrics for the AIXC Hub, the Company initiates a strategic team expansion focused on compliance, scalable growth, and institutional partnerships.

Los Angeles, CA – (BUSINESS WIRE) – AIxCrypto Holdings (NASDAQ: AIXC) today announced it is entering a new phase of accelerated execution. As the Company's "AI × Crypto × RWA" strategy delivers substantial progress across product development, user acquisition, and ecosystem partnerships, market response to its core offering—specifically the AIXC Hub—has surpassed early internal projections in both market visibility and user engagement.

Since its launch, the AIXC Hub has rapidly garnered widespread attention from global builders, operators, and ecosystem participants. The velocity of user adoption and inbound inquiries has surpassed early internal projections, validating the Company's product direction and the underlying logic of combining AI-driven intelligence with crypto-native infrastructure and Real World Asset (RWA) scenarios. To date, the platform has attracted hundreds of thousands of registered wallet addresses. This momentum has not only accelerated product iteration cycles but has also catalyzed immediate demand for expanded capabilities in communications, growth operations, ecosystem activation, and strategic partnerships.

Strategic expansion is aligned with business demands , ensuring that operational infrastructure scales with product adoption.

Key Recruitment Focus Areas:

Communications Manager: As corporate visibility rises, the importance of clear, credible messaging is paramount. AIXC is seeking a Communication Manager with a strong international background and policy acumen. This role operates at the intersection of technology, public affairs, and media, translating complex AI and crypto topics into narratives that resonate with global audiences while confidently engaging with institutional stakeholders and opinion leaders. This role marks AIXC's shift from early-stage messaging to long-term reputation construction and strategic positioning.

Growth Operators: With genuine growth momentum established, user retention and ecosystem development are critical focus areas. AIXC is building Growth Operation capabilities focused on retention mechanics and unit economics, informed by battle-tested experience scaling Web3 products under actual market conditions. Beyond conceptual planning, this role drives measurable growth through product logic, incentive design, data-driven experimentation, and close collaboration with engineering teams. This function supports AIXC's transition from early adoption to a replicable, scalable growth engine.

Event Manager: As external interest and ecosystem activities expand, AIXC is recruiting an Event Manager to lead global and regional activations and high-impact industry gatherings. AIXC views events not merely as brand displays, but as critical touchpoints connecting users, partners, builders, and capital.

Strategic Business Development Leader: The Company is selecting a corporate-level Strategic BD Leader focused on long-term, cross-functional partnerships, covering technical integration, ecosystem collaboration, and strategic capital relationships. This role is designed to support AIXC's evolution from a fast-growing platform into a highly interconnected, interoperable ecosystem.

As AIXC scales, recruitment is now a core priority alongside product development and ecosystem expansion.
